Jarrett's Autocrossing '61

by Bruce Jarrett

Bruce & Faye Jarrett

I purchased my 1961 Corvette in 1983 while stationed at Kirkland AFB in Albuquerque, New Mexico. It only had 12,000 miles on it and was still original. Originally I used it for driving to work and touring the United States, but a few years ago I went to watch an Autocross at a local Corvette Club and ended up trying it. The cars I was driving against were mostly new Corvettes, but I still had fun with my under-powered engine and antiquated suspension. I decided to put a power assist unit on my worm gear steering and manual disc brakes on the front. I also did some comedic changes to the car but wanted to keep the car close to original performance wise. The 283 engine, 205/15 tires, solid axle rear end and original suspension is a challenge against the new Corvettes but I have a lot of fun competing against them. At 68 years old I do pretty good beating the new cars including Corvettes, other US Makers and Foreign Imports. Unfortunately I have never beaten another C1 because I have never come across one at the track.

This was the only Corvette I had ever owned until I purchased a new 2017 Grand Sport. I thought I better try a new one before I got too old to enjoy it. I really like the GS and I also track it, but the '61 puts the biggest smile on my face especially when people are always wanting to take photos next to it, and when it beats a car that is almost 60 years newer.

The Confirmed Kills photo (above) is my way of adding some fun. On the left is C7, C6, C5, C4, C3, C2, C1 and on the right is Chevy, Dodge, Ford, Pontiac, Japan, Italy, British and German. I put a hash mark when I beat someone. I don't put anyone down more than once, no matter how many times I beat them.

Autocrossing hasn't hurt my car, but it has given me a whole new respect and love for the car and taught me how to drive with just the basics. I paid $10,000 for the car and I know I have received far more than that in experiences and enjoyment. Autocrossing isn't the end of the story of my car it's just a new chapter.
